ED FRAWLEY

Ed Frawley started Leerburg in 1982. Dog training has always been Ed's passion for as long as he can remember. He has competed in AKC Obedience, AKC Tracking, Schutzhund, and was an AKC Sheep Herding judge back in the 1990's. Ed was a Police K9 handler on the local Sheriff's Department for 10 years. These real life experiences have helped build Leerburg into the company it is today.

CINDY RHODES

Cindy Rhodes has been training dogs since the 1970's. Her first competition dog was a Shetland Sheepdog that introduced her to the world of competitive obedience in the early 80's. Cindy has trained many breeds of dogs for clients, was an all-breed groomer for over 15 years, and worked in several different veterinary practices as a technician. Her sports of choice have varied over time, but she has actively trained and titled multiple dogs in AKC/CKC obedience, IPO, and Mondioring.

OUR LEATHER CRAFTSMANSHIP

Leerburg leather products are works of art.

The cow hides used to make all of Leerburg's leather are hand selected for Leerburg before tanning. We need and use the thickest hides available. Our hides go through over 85 steps in a tanning process that takes over a month. There are many types of Latigo leather that are made in Mexico, India, or Pakistan, but none can compare to the quality of Leerburg's Latigo leather.

Once tanned, our Leerburg Leather is delivered to the Amish family that crafts our leather products right here in Wisconsin. This family has been making all of our leather products for the past 20 years. These 5 Amish craftsmen hand cut, sew, pop-rivet, and tailor all of our leather products. We have yet to come across another leather product that measures up to our products quality.

In 2015, we switched from using brass or bronze hardware to stainless steel. Stainless steel is stronger and lasts a lifetime. You can go and find a cheaper leather product somewhere else, but the quality will not measure up to our products. 100% of Leerburg leather products are made in Wisconsin.

This training video is designed to take you through the progression of teaching hunting retrievers (or any dog) to sit to a whistle when out in the field. It's imperative that we maintain control of our dogs when out in the field. Having them sit to the whistle is often the first component to controlling our dogs when they are away from us at a distance.

Even if you don't have a hunting retriever and just want to train your dog to sit to a whistle, this video will give you an idea of how and when we use various rewards to set the dog up for success.

We would like to dedicate this issue of Leerburg's catalog to my dad, Dave Easton.

My dad was born in 1932 and left us on July 29, 2017. Words can't even begin to describe how much my family and I miss him. He was a great dad and grandpa, a proud Marine, and had an attention to detail honed by years of working at R.R. Donnelley & Sons in the printing business. After his retirement, my dad volunteered to proofread our yearly Leerburg catalog. For those of you who know Ed and his struggle with spelling, it's a big job!

My dad, Dave, volunteered for the U.S. Marines at age 18 and served as a mortar gunner during the Korean War from 1951-54. He then went to work for R.R. Donnelley (at the time the world's largest printing company) but missed the brotherhood of the USMC. He reenlisted in the Marines in 1957 and reported to Embassy Duty in Brussels, Belgium. He met and married my mom in Belgium and was discharged from the Marines as a sergeant in 1962. When I was a toddler, we moved to Rabat, Morocco, where my dad worked in communications with the Foreign Service of the U.S. Department of State until 1966. He then resumed his career with R.R. Donnelley and which took him from Chicago to Indiana, Connecticut, and Tennessee. He retired from Donnelley's in 1994.

After retirement, Dad wrote a book about his time spent in Korea titled, "Leatherneck Sea Stories: Recollections of Marines, Korea and the Corps of the 1950s." His book is available from Canopic Publishing (www.canopicpublishing.com/product-page/leatherneck-sea-stories-by-dave-easton).

Besides Ed & me, my dad left behind my mom, Barb; my brother, Dave (and his wife, Jennifer); my sister, Elizabeth (and her husband, Lukas); and five grandchildren: Andrew, Jacob, Grace, Patrick, and Elijah.

Semper Fi, Dad. We miss you everyday.

Cindy & Ed
